

DR. CRIPPEN'S COMPANION FREE IS "LINK" AFTER THE GOVERNORSHIP?

SAY LINK WANTS TO BE GOVERNOR

That Link McCandless is really working to be governor rather than delegate to Congress, is an idea that has been sprung among politicians who are watching the devious courses of the Democratic candidate for delegate to Congress. Unable to figure out how McCandless can expect to be elected as delegate, they say he is running over and over again on the chance that, if a Democrat should be elected president next time, Link would have a right to recognition as head of the local Democratic party, and to reward for many times leading a forlorn hope.

Many Democrats think that their party is going to win next time in the presidential election. If there is a Democratic president, they figure, there will be a Democratic governor of Hawaii as soon as the President gets a chance to appoint a new governor. Link, having led his party three or four times as candidate for delegate to Congress, would naturally be in line for the job.

This, say some of the politicians, is the reason for the strenuous activities of McCandless to remain the Big Noise in the Democratic party of Hawaii.

KINGSBURY GIVES LAWYER NICE LESSON IN GRAMMAR

A Maui attorney last week received a nice call-down, in a grammatical way, from Circuit Judge Kingsbury, and he is very careful now, as are other attorneys in the Maui circuit, about how he addresses the bench. The call-down involved the difference between "If the court please" and "If the court please."

The attorney in question several times, in addressing the bench, began his remarks with "If the court please." The judge quickly perceived that a strict grammatical construction of this form of salutation appeared to express the idea that the court was to please, not to be pleased, and after it had been repeated two or three times, the lawyer got his. He was told that the court wasn't there to please anybody, and that his form of address would not be tolerated. "The proper form of address is 'May it please the court,' or 'If the court please,—not please,'" said his honor.

Now, in order that there may be no mistake as to whether the court is pleasing or being pleased, the attorneys say "May it please the court."

SMALL CASE DRAGS LONG TIME IN POLICE COURT

A striking example of the law's delay is being afforded by a trifling case which is still before the police court, and which promises to continue there for some time at least. The matter seems a very simple one to decide, but the two defendants are being put to a great amount of inconvenience, altogether incommensurate with the offense.

Kukale Kaupiko and a wahine named Halekaka were charged on the 13th ultimo with having stolen a chicken at Waikiki on the previous day. Halekaka pleaded guilty, but the man protested his innocence. Judge Humphreys was retained to assist the prosecution, the defendants being unrepresented by counsel, and instead of going into the matter then and there and determining the guilt or innocence of the man, Judge Andrade, at the request of the prosecution, granted a continuance until the 20th. When the case came on the second time, a second request for an adjournment was made and granted, and this morning for the third time the case was called in court.

The old story was again told and once more a continuance was granted, Judge Thayer setting the case for Thursday. Whether guilty or innocent Kukale will soon wish he had pleaded guilty if he does not soon get a hearing, or he will forget about the incident. Perchance even it may develop into another Rip Van Winkle tale.

LINK AND KUHIO ARE BOTH ON MAUI; KUHIO STARTS A COMPLETE TOUR AGAIN

Candidates McCandless and Kuhio are both on Maui now, and quite likely to run into each other in the course of their campaigning. According to a wireless received by The Star this morning from Hilo, McCandless left on the Claudine yesterday afternoon for Maui. Prince Kuhio left this morning on the Mauna Kea from Honolulu for the same island. Maui is going to have a couple of strenuous days.

McCandless has finished his second tour of Hawaii, and is now touring Maui, expecting to return to Honolulu next Saturday, to do some more campaigning on this island. His plans for the last week are not known.

Kuhio will land at McGregor's landing, on Maui, this evening, and will proceed overland holding meetings, and will be at Kahului Saturday morning in time to catch the Claudine for Hilo, where he will arrive Sunday morning. That will give him five days to hustle over the big island and catch the Mauna Kea for Honolulu, arriving here on November 5, the Saturday before election day.

NEW DEMOCRATIC PAPER'S THUNDER IS VERY MILD

The "Democrat," published by the Democratic campaign committee, made its appearance today, and proved to be a much milder sheet than had been expected. It followed the soap-box man in a general roast of the daily papers, in its first article. Most of its space is devoted to arguments for the McCandless immigration platform, which was unexpected in view of the fact that Col. McCarthy, head of the campaign committee in charge of the paper, is opposed to that platform.

The new paper is registered as "published at Honolulu, T. H., each day except Sunday by H. A. Juen, E. P. Irwin, editor." It is being distributed free, and those who have seen the first issue are heard to say that by no other means of distribution could it be got into the hands of any considerable number of people.

HAWAII GETS BIGGER SPACE

Governor Frear has just received proof sheets of his report to Washington. In addition to this report the Governor has received an intimation that the Secretary of the Interior would like for his own use for submission to Congress an abstract of about 1,500 words. Previously the Secretary was content with an abstract of but 300 words, but no doubt owing to the progress of the Territory lengthier reports are required.

AUTO SPEEDING COSTS TWENTY

Warren Benford was before Judge Cooper this morning charged with having driven an automobile at an excessive speed along Peretania Avenue at June 17 last. This defendant pleaded guilty to a similar charge on January 25 last, but sentence was suspended for six months. The suspension period had not expired before he was again caught speeding, and this morning he was found guilty, and was fined $20 and costs. An exception was noted by Attorney Lightfoot, who appeared for the defendant.

MURDER TRIAL LASTED LESS THAN A DAY

(Associated Press Cable to The Star.)
LONDON, October 25.—Miss Leneve, the young woman accused of having been Dr. Crippen's accomplice in the murder of his wife, was acquitted by a jury today. The trial lasted only a few hours. It was begun this morning, and by afternoon a jury had been sworn in, the evidence taken, the case argued and a verdict rendered.

Dressed as a boy Miss Leneve fled to America with Dr. Crippen, and she was arrested and brought back with him, it being charged that she had aided him in the murder. While in prison she declared that as soon as she was at liberty she would commit suicide. She was much infatuated with the doctor, and stonily maintained his innocence.

Dr. Crippen is to be hanged two weeks from today.

Especially with regard to the handling and weighing of sugar, which was the main feature of the investigation, the report of the investigators is highly commendatory.
